Carried From Third Story of Burning Building by Chief and Detective.

Ispecial to The Times-Dispatch.]

Norfolk, Va., December 27.—Fire this morning partially destroyed the building at No. 311 Main Street, occupied on the ground floor by the Burt Shoe Store and on the apper floor by Bradford & Hall, dentista. The thrilling rescue or Mrs. Hall from the third story of the building by Chief McLaughlin and Detective Powers was a feature of the fire, witnessed by thousands. The origin of the fire was in the rear of the building, the cause unknown, and the flames spread explidy. The store store was ewest in a few minutes, and the flames rapidly began to climb to the upper floors. It was while directing the movement that Chief McLaughlin's afternion was called to the fact that a woman had appeared that Chief McLaughlin's afternion was called to the fact that a woman had appeared at a third-story window, occupied by Mrs. Hall's family, She was ill in bed and alone in the building at the time. Chief McLaughlin and Detective Powers dashed through the blinding smoke to the steps and disappeared.

There was a shout from the hundreds congregated on the scene, when a few minutes later they reappeared with the limp form of Mrs. Hall on their shoulders. She had been overcome by the dense smoke. The two men were aimest exhausted from their exertions, the blinding and softocating smoke point for some time was hysterical.

There was a quickly controlled, but the shoe stock of the Burt store is ruined and the building considerably damaged on the inside. The estimated loss is $15,000.

BREAK THROUGH ICE.

George and E. Risque Hutter Drowned in Kanawha River.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Lynchburg, Va., December 27.—
George Hutter, a superintendent of the Fort Defiance Coal Company, of Gauley Bridge, W. Va., and his brother, E. Risque Hutter, of this city, were drowned this morning about 1 o'clock while crossing the Kanawha River near Gauley Mills, when returning home from an entertainment. Up to late this afternoon their bodies had not been recovered. Both were residents of Lynchburg, and Risque Hutter was on a Christmas visit when the tragedy occurred.

George broke through the jee first, and Risque plunged after him in an effort to save him. At this time they were discovered by a friend, who ran for assistance, but when he returned both men had disappeared. The drowning occurred Just above a dam, and the bodies cannot wash away. The dead men were well known here, being prominently connected. They were cousins of the well-known Langhornes, of Albemarle county, one of whom is Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Catawba, Va., December 27.—Brilliant and entertaining beyond all expectations was the Christmas celebration at the Catawba Sanatorium on Saturday night, when the patients gathered in the new amusement hall to partake of the festivities which had been provided. The hall was decorated with appropriately insoribed streamers, mistletoe and other evergreens, while in the rear stood an imposing cedar tree brilliantly lighted and fairly laden with presents for the patients and attaches of the institution.

For several days prior to the occasion express wagons had been rolling in from Salem, burdened with packages and boxes of every description, and it turned out in the end that home folk and friends had remembered all the patients hendsomely and friends had remembered all the patients handsomely.

The affair was arranged and conducted with skill and good taste by Miss W. C. Carhart, the head nurse of the Sanatorium.

With the consent of the patients she held all Christmas packages and placed their contents upon the tree, furnishing a pleasant surprise to the recipients.

faced an audience composed of persons at a sanatorium for treatment, as the spirit of sunshine and Christmas cheer was predominant everywhere.

In addition to the presents dispensed so lavishly from the tree by Santa Claus, there were other interesting and entertaining features on the program. Refreshments were served in the dining room, while the climax came with a dance which lasted several hours. Another feature was an elaborate calender exhibit by Charles E. Brauer, of Richmond, librarian of the sanatorium. After thoroughly enjoying themselves until 10:30 o'clock the patients retired to their quarters, bearing gifts sent by their friends.

Goldsboro, N. C., December 27.—The defendants in the Christmas Eve tragedies, which resulted in the death of Mrs. Johnnie Mooring and Berger
Smith, were given a preliminary hearing this afternoon, and the coroner's jury, which presided over both cases, rendered a verdict that Mrs. Johnnie Mooring came to her death by a gunshot wound in her left side at the hands of Herbert Mooring; and that Berger Smith came to his death by knife wounds inflicted by George J.
Smith. Both Smith and Mooring were placed in jail without bail to await a

Court.

VALLEY IS SUFFERING FROM WATER FAMINE

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Woodstock, Va., December 27.—This section of the Valley is suffering more from the want of water than ever in the experience of the oldest citizens. While the wheat crop, though planted late last fall, is doing nicely under the snow that has been on the ground for three weeks, water is very scarce. Scarcely any rain has fallen since last fully, and the streams and ponds are very low. To add to the scarcity, all the streams are covered with ice as thick as twelve inches.

In the country wells and cisterns are dry, and in many cases water has to be hauled for miles. The towns of Strasburg, Woodstock, Edinburg and Mt. Jackson all have gravity systems with their reservoirs in the mountains. They are using their water as sparingly as possible, fearing a fre.
